HELP SAVE A LIFE LIKE RORY'S

Rory didn't always look this happy, but with our dedicated care and your support we can rehome even more animals just like him.

Pick me up and find out more about how you can save the lives of cats, dogs and rabbits in our care.

Rory was previously weak and malnourished

The Society for Abandoned animals is an animal charity based in Manchester who care for and rehome unwanted cats, dogs and rabbits.

Over a five year period we have successfully rehomed 158 dogs, 938 cats and 320 rabbits. Many of our animals have not had the best start in life and so to ensure they are rehomed with caring families who can give them the love and support they deserve, it is our policy to carry out home checks on all potential new homes prior to adoption. In this way we home to provide the most suitable homes for our animals and give them the best possible start with their new families. We do not put a healthy animal down.

Thinking about us when writing a will helps us continue our work to help more and more animals who can't help themselves, build more units and improve what we have to ensure we continue to provide the best care possible.
